CONSUMPTION CURABLE BY DR. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES.—To cure CONSUMPTION the system must be prepared so that the lungs will heal. To accomplish this, the liver and stomach must first be cleansed and an appetite created for good wholesome food, which, by these medicines will be digested properly, and good healthy blood made; thus building up the constitution. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS cleanse the stomach of all bilious or mucuous accumulations; and, by using the Sea Weed Tonic in connection, the appetite is restored.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is nutricous as well as medicinal, and by using the three remedies, all impurities are expelled from the system, and good, wholesome blood made, which will repel all diseases. If patients will take these medicines according to directions, Consumption very frequently in its last stage yields readily to their action. Take the pills frequently, to cleanse the liver and stomach. It does not follow that because the bowels are not costive they are not required, for sometimes in diarrhœa they are necessary. The stomach must be kept healthy, and an appetite created to allow the Pulmonic syrup to act on the respiratory organs, properly and allay any irritation. Then all that is required to perform a permanent cure is, to prevent taking cold. Exercise about the rooms as much as possible, eat all the richest food—fat meat, game, and, in fact, anything the appetite craves; but be particular and masticate well.

WHAT EVERY ONE WANTS.—A good, reliable medicine that will be on hand when required, and never fails when called on. That is now to be obtained in Dr. Tobias' Celebrated Venitian Liniment. Many thousands call it the Wonder of the Age, as it does all that is represented and more. It cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Spasms, Vomiting, Croup, and Sea-sickness as surely as it is used, and is perfectly innocent to take internally, even in double the quantity named in the directions; and as an external remedy for Chronic Rheumatism, Cuts, Bruises, Old Sores, Mumps, Toothache, Headache, Sore Throat, Sprains, Insect Stings, Pains in the Back, Chest, and Limbs, thousands have testified to, and their certificates can been seen by any one at the Doctor's Depot, 56 Cortlandt street, New York. Hundreds of Physicians use it in their practice. It has been introduced since 1847, and hundreds who now have it in their houses, say they would not be without it even if it was $10 per bottle. Every drop is mixed by Dr. Tobias himself, and can be depended on. Only 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Sold by Druggists. Depot 56 Cortlandt St., New York. [Oct. 8-1m.

USE THE BEST.—Blades' Euphonial Lubricators are a medical preparation in the form of a Lozenge, and are universally considered the most pleasant, convenient and effectual remedy in use for Hoarseness, Coughs, Colds, Croups, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, Diptheria, and all Pulmonary Complaints. They are WARRANTED to give quicker and more lasting benefit in the above affections than any other remedy. Also to contain no deleterious ingredient, and not to offend the weakest and most sensitive Stomach.

Blades' Constitution Pills are so called because of their peculiar effect upon the Liver, Stomach, Blood and Nervous System. For inactivity of the Liver, for the Stomach in derangement, or Dyspepsia, they will delight the patient with their mild and beneficial effect, especially if after long continued indigestion and costiveness, they are left with periodical returns of the Sick Headache. In case of a severe cold, producing Chills and Fever, you can break it very soon by using the Pills as per directions with each box. JOHN H. BLADES & CO.,

GOING VERY FAST.—This is an age of wonderful inventions. The minds of ingenious men have brought forth machinery facilitating and making labor easy. And among the rest the Blacksmith has not been forgotten, for I. C. Singer has invented a machine which makes the process of bending light or heavy tires, bands, &c., an easy and very pleasant task. This machine is gauged and numbered so as to tell exactly where to place the rollers in order to bend any desired diameter. Hundreds of references can be given. To get the machine, address R. H. Singer, Ebensburg, Pa.

N. B.—A few State rights remain to be disposed of. None need apply for Pennsylvania, as the inventor intends holding it for the purpose of selling machines.

P. S.—The place to get your horse well shod, your wagon tire made and general blacksmithing done, is at R. H. Singer's shop, near Isaac Evans' tannery.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—REV. EDWARD A. WILSON will send (free of charge) to all who desire it, the prescription with the directions for making and using the simple remedy by which he was cured of a lung affection and that dread disease, Consumption. His only object is to benefit the afflicted, and he hopes that every sufferer will try this prescription, as it will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing. Please address

MRS. SMITH'S OPINIONS.

The other day I made a call,
As ladies sometimes do,
To hear the news my friends could tell,
And tell them what I knew;
And as we sat in social chat,
O'er steaming cups of tea,
"I don't know what we're coming to!"
Says Mrs. Smith, says she. —

"They're making laws at such a rate,
It almost drives me wild;
They do not care for God, I think,
For woman, man nor child.
They've forced the negroes in the cars,
Along with you and me;
And who knows where they'll force them next?"
Says Mrs. Smith, says she.

"Their children are to go to school
Along with yours and mine,
And if we white folks should object,
Our rights we can resign.
All social lines must be removed
Because the blacks are free;
Such things are not to be endured,"
Says Mrs. Smith, says she.

"And not content with all these gifts,
Bestowed with lavish hand,
The negroes must be fed and clothed
Throughout the Southern land.
The taxes now are high enough,
But what they yet may be
'Tis not in human power to guess,"
Says Mrs. Smith, says she.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH FOR HER.

In the days of the good colony of Virginia, the distinction between rich and poor was based upon laws which, like those of the Medes and Persians, altered not. One of the most devoted followers of this code was a wealthy planter, living in what is known as the Northern Neck. He was in all respects a frank, open hearted, manly gentleman; but his estimate of his fellow men was founded upon the principles that governed the selections of his horses—blood. Wealth, too, was by no means an unimportant feature with him. He had our human weakness, and like all of us, was influenced more than he believed by pounds, shillings and pence.

This Mr. G—— had quite a large family, and among them was a daughter whose beauty was the standing toast of the country. She was just eighteen, and budding into lovely womanhood. Not only was she beautiful in person, but her amiable disposition and many accomplishments made her more than ordinarily attractive, and half the gentlemen of the Northern Neck were already sighing for her love.

There was in the country at this time a young man who was already rising high in the esteem of his neighbors. He came of good family, but was, as yet, a poor young surveyor, who had taught himself his profession, and who had spent much of his time in traveling unknown forests, with nothing but his compass for his guide, and his chain for his companion, locating lands and settling disputed titles. He was a model of manly beauty, and excelled in the varied feats of strength in which the olden time Americans took such pride. He was calm and reserved, and there was about him a dignified sweetness of demeanor that accorded well with his frank independence of character. He was a great favorite with all who knew him, and there was no gathering to which he was not asked.

Mr. G—— seemed especially to like the young man, and it was not long before he insisted that the latter should abandon all ceremony in his visits to him, and come and go when he pleased. The invitation was heartily given, and as promptly accepted. The young man liked the planter, and he found the society of the beautiful Mary G—— a very strong attraction. The result was that he was frequently at the planter's residence; so frequently, indeed, that Mrs. G—— felt called upon to ask her husband if he did not think it wrong to permit him to enjoy such unreserved intercourse with their daughter. The father only laughed at the idea, and said he hoped his daughter knew her position too well to allow anything like love for a poor surveyor to blind her to her duty to her family.

Nevertheless Mary G—— was not so fully impressed with this conviction of duty as was her father. She found more to admire in the poor surveyor than in all her wealthy and aristocratic suitors, and almost before she knew it her heart passed out of her keeping and was given to him. She loved him with all the honesty and devotion of her pure heart; and she would have thought it happiness to go out with him into the backwoods and share his fatigues and troubles, no matter how much sorrow they might bring to her.

Nor did she love in vain. The young man, whose knowledge of the world was afterwards so great, had not then learned to consider as binding the distinctions which society drew between his position and that of the lady. He knew that in all that makes a man, he was the equal of any one. He believed that, except in wealth, he stood on a perfect equality with Mary G——, and he loved her honestly and manfully, and no sooner had he satisfied himself upon the state of his own feelings than he confessed his devotion, simply and truthfully, and received from the lady's lips the assurance that she loved him very dearly.

Scorning to occupy a doubtful position, or to cause the lady to conceal aught from her parents, the young man frankly and manfully asked Mr. G—— for his daughter's hand. Very angry grew the planter as he listened to the audacious proposal. He stormed and swore furiously, and denounced the young man as an ungrateful upstart.

"My daughter has always been accustomed to riding in her own carriage," he said. "Who are you, sir?"

"A gentleman, sir," replied the young man quietly; and he left the house.

The lovers were parted. The lady married soon after a wealthy planter, and the young man went out again into the world to battle with his heart and conquer his unhappy passion. He subdued it; but although he afterwards married a woman whom he loved honestly and truthfully, and who was worthy of his love, he was never wholly dead to his first love.

Time passed on, and the young man began to reap the reward of his labors. He had never been to the house of Mr. G—— since his cruel repulse by the planter; but the latter could not forget him, as his name soon became familiar in every Virginia household. Higher and higher he arose every year, until he gained a position from which he could look down upon the proud planter. Wealth came to him, too. When the great struggle for independence dawned, he was in his prime, a happy husband, and one of the most distinguished men in America. The struggle went on, and soon the "poor surveyor" held the highest and proudest position in the land.

When the American army passed in triumph through the streets of Williamsburg, the ancient capital of Virginia, after the surrender of Cornwallis, the officer riding at the head of the column chanced to glance up at one of the balconies which was crowded with ladies. Recognizing one of them he raised his hat and bowed profoundly. There was a commotion in the balcony, and some one called for water, saying Mrs. Lee had fainted. Turning to a young man who rode near him the officer said gravely—

"Henry, I fear your mother has fainted. You had better leave the column and go to her."

The speaker was George Washington, once the "poor surveyor,"—but then commander-in-chief of the armies of the United States. The young man was Col. Henry Lee, the commander of the famous "Light Cavalry Legion;" the lady was his mother, and formerly Miss G——, the belle of the "Northern Neck."

A ROMANTIC INCIDENT.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, at Atlantic city, says: A romantic incident occurred here last week, which has thus been related to me: A young man from Philadelphia lost his heart to a pretty girl from that city, whose father was president of a prominent bank there, and very wealthy. He was a salaried clerk, though of very good family, and was unwilling, on account of his poverty, to propose marriage, even though he had reason to believe his passion was returned. He made his confession, it seems, to one of his friends, and the story of his modesty and pride reached the young lady's ears, and touched her, very naturally.

A few weeks after the fair Philadelphian was driving on the beach alone, when her horse became frightened at the surf and ran off at a furious pace. She lost all control of the terrified animal, which had ran at least two miles, when the enamored swain, exactly as it happens in romances, chanced to be walking by the border of the sounding main, as Homer would put it, thinking of the cheerless future without the idol of his soul (for further sephomorical phraseology, see Sylvanus Cobb, Jr.) In a few moments he held the horse's head; was dragged a few hundred yards before he could check the animal's course, and then snatched the half fainting girl from the vehicle. Once in his arms she fainted wholly, of course. He held her in his embrace until she recovered. She murmered her gratitude; he his passion, and they walked to the hotel with rosy blushes all over their faces.

That night the wealthy father heard of his daughter's rescue, and, after talking with her, discovered that she loved the fellow. The following morning he sent for the clerk, and discovered the fellow loved the girl.

"Why the devil didn't you propose to her? How was she or I to know anything of the state of your heart unless you told her about it? You didn't expect a pretty woman with $200,000 in her own right to run about with her love in her hand, asking handsome scape-graces like yourself to take it, did you?"

"I knew, sir, that I was very poor, and you very rich; that it was not probable that you would—"

"Nonsense! I don't want my daughter to marry a bank account. My own is high enough for her. You are worthy; and if you love her, go and tell her so, and let me hear no more stuff about poverty and wealth."

The young man went, and I presume the two came to an understanding, as I am informed they are to be married the first week in November.

The narrative is not a whit original or new, except in the fact that the pater familias has sense enough to prefer his daughter's happiness to superfluous riches. I would like to give his name for the benefit of example. I can't, of course; though I may say if you read the sign No. — Third street, Philadelphia, you will learn who the wise Cresus is.

FIGHTING MEN.

One of the generals of the "Lost Cause" relates the following in the Boston Commercial Bulletin:

There was a little Frenchman in New Orleans who applied to a Southern official for a berth for his son, a short time ago. Thinking to curry favor with this party, who was "native and to the manor born," he said—

"My leetle boy (aged 33) is vere smart man, vere good man, good Southern man, and brave plus brave; yes, sare, he has grande courage."

"Indeed," said the official, "I do not seem to recall your name in the army list. What actions was your son engaged in? Where did he display such undaunted courage?"

"All ze time sat General Butlare was here he stay right still in New Orleans, under his nose, and nevare move."

It is perhaps unnecessary to say that the official could not appreciate the merits of the "Child of France," and monsieur retired, sadly disappointed.

Another illustration of this kind occurred in the person of a mate of the Mississippi boat, that we had converted into a cottonclad for the attack on Fort Pillow. This fellow was a big, double-fisted sample of a river bully, "full of strange oaths," and always enforcing his orders by knocking men about the head. Just before we went into the fight he came swaggering up to me and said—

"Waal, gineral, I suppose when one side or tother's licked, you big men'll quit and shake hands?"

"Yes, Jim," said I; "when the fighting is over I expect every man to go home and attend to his business."

"That ain't me," said Jim, smiting his left palm with a fist like a sledge hammer, "fur of ever I ketch a Yank agin south of Cairo, I'm agoin to mash him."

A ten inch shell that came whistling over the boat interrupted any further remark just then, and shortly after we were butting away at the Federal boats, in and about as hot a fire as I ever want to see. I should think there was a hundred guns opened on us, and we got one broadside so near that the flash of their guns set our cotton bales on fire. Our people fought well, but the other side were too strong for us, and we had to drop down the river. During the action, while cannon were roaring, boats sinking, shells shrieking and bursting all around, and the air filled with flame and smoke, I quite lost sight of Jim, but after we had dropped down the river, out of fire, and all hands were busy repairing damages, that valiant hero crept out from behind a cotton bale, and sneaking past me with a flag of truce, said—

"Gineral, I ain't so mad as I was. This ain't the kind of fightin' I'm used to, and when them fellers get ready to stop throwin' them iron pots round, I'll quit if they will." And sure enough, in two weeks, he went into the lines and took the oath.

A U. S. SOLDIER FALLS HEIR TO A SCOTCH BARONETCY.—A romantic little incident has just come to light. The facts are given thus: Two years ago Hugh Crawford Pollock, a young gentleman then about twenty years old, suddenly disappeared from his home in Scotland, much to the dismay of his relatives and acquaintances. It subsequently became known that he had come to this country with five hundred pounds in his pocket. He sported about New York and other cities until his funds commenced to run short, when, in a fit of desperation, he enlisted in the 5th United States cavalry as a private soldier, and in this humble capacity struggled against hardships and deprivations to which he had been wholly unused. In the meantime his father died some four months ago, leaving Hugh heir to a baronetcy and a snug little income of £5,000 per annum, or about $25,000 in gold. The young baronet was duly sought for, and, after an expenditure of $800 in advertisements, it was ascertained that he was stationed at Camp Verde, Texas, discharging the duties of a farrier. Col. William S. Hillyer, of New York, who became interested in the case, induced Sir Frederick Bruce to procure the discharge of Pollock, which was promptly acceded to by General Grant. The young Sir Hugh Crawford Pollock has, therefore, been telegraphed for, and has given up the occupation of shoer and curer of horses to enter upon a Scotch baronetcy and £5,000 a year. Such is life.

A WAG belonging to the Atlanta bar propounded the following conundrum at the county court recently: "Why is a child hooked and killed by a cow like a modern lady's dress?" In vain did the Judge and officers of the court endeavor to solve it. With a roguish twinkle of the eye he said, "Because it's gored to death."

"ARE you not afraid your wife will get married again when you die?"

"I hope she may, as there will be one man in the world who will know how to pity me."

OLD BRUDDER PETE'S SERMON.

"Beware of men dat come to you in sheep's clothing, but within are raving wolves."

BELOVED BRUDDERIN: I is gwine to do on dis de present 'casion what I nebber done afore, since I commenced spoundin' de gospil—I'se gwine to preach a political sarmint. I is a free American of African 'scent, and I'se got just as good rite to preach politics as brudder Beecher or any oder man. De tex say, "Bewar of men dat come to you in sheep's clothin'." Now bredderin, de question axes itself, what is sheep's clothin'. Sheep's clothin', you all know, is wool; and you all know likewise, de black man got wool stid of har, on his criniology. So, widout stretchin de figger mor'n a politicianer sometimes stretches his conscience, we may read de tex in dis wise: Bewar of de white men dat comes to you in wool, dat is, comes to you in de guise ob black man; dat makes out dey lub de black man; dat dey feel like de black man; but within they are raven wolves, seekin nigger votes. Dey come to us in sheep's clothing; dey call you fellow citizen; dey is laborin and sufferin persecution for de sake ob de black man; dey respect dier colored bredderin; dey lub dier colored sistern. Dey come to us in sheep's clothin; dey is gwine to do great things for de black man; dey is gwine to gib ebery black man a farm, and ebery woman a grand pianner; and larn all de little nigs to cipher multuplication and talk Greek. Dey is gwine to gib de black man franchises, and cibil rites, and buros, and pluribus unums, and debil knows what; make crismas come twice a year, and ebery third year a jubilo. Bewar ob dem, my bredderin; dey lubs de black man and de black woman like de wolf lubs de sheep, and dat, you know, is for de sake ob de sheep meat.

Dey is ravenin wolves, my bruddern, seekin niggers votes. Dey are broken-winded politicianers, my bruddern, dat decent white men won't vote for, and dey thinks dey can get de votes ob de black men, by pullin wool ober der eyes. Dat's why dey go in for nigger suffrage; when the Lord knows de nigger's done sufferin enough already wid dier foolishness. What good it gwine to do a nigger to vote? It ain't gwine to put meal in the barrel, meat in de pot, taters in de ashes, nor corn in the hoss-troff. What you know bout de law, my bruddern? Which of you would know a tariff from a tarripin, if yo's to meet it by moonlight? Which way would you start to go to Congress, if anybody was fool enough to elect you dar? Bruddren, dey sometimes take de eyeses and noses in Congress; and sometimes dier are more noses dan eyeses. Has any ob you got sense 'nuff to tell how dat mout be? If you don't know nuffin about de laws, how you gwine to make de laws, or mend de laws? I know a smart nigger who once undertook to mend his watch. He got it to pieces in less dan no time; but arter he worked it awhile, de debble himself couldn't put it togedder. Dat's bout de fix you'll get de government in if you go to tinkerin wid it. Better be hoin corn, to make bread for ole oman and de chilens. You all knows how to do dat, but you don't know how to make laws, nor mend 'em, and you don't know what sort of men to chose to do it. You just as apt to vote for a fool as King Solomon, and you a heap apter to vote for a rascal dan a good man, kase de tex says it's de ravenin wolf dat comes in sheep clothin; and de black man can't tell sheep from wolf. Dat's what dese mean white men knows; and dat's de reason dey want you to vote. Dey frail spectable white folks won't vote for 'em, and dey think dey can fool de black man, cause dey don't know nuffin, and is easy soft-sowdered. Dar's chestnuts in de fire, my bredderin, and monkey want's 'em; he rake 'em out wid de cat's paws; if it burn de cat, it don't de monkey. What do mean white men care how much de nigger suffer, so dey get and keep the offices. What dey care if a hundred sassy, fool niggers get kill, as dey did at Orleans, so as dey can get up a hellabello against de rebels, as dey call cleber white men; and get an excuse to have de handle of de vise turned one more time, and dey get de rule ob dier betters. Beware ob dem my bruddern. When we monkeys see chestnuts in de fire and begin to be mighty perlite to de cat, let de cat take care ob her paws.

Dey is ravin wolves, my belubbed, seeking whom dey may devour. Dey show dier lub for de black man for taxin his cotton three cents a pound, while his chilums is cryin for bread, his blankets a dollar a par, while he is shibberin wid cold. Bewar ob dem, belubbed bruddern; if you lets dem fool you wid dier soft-sawder, you'll be wus dan poor Esau, who sold his birth-right fur a mess of potash; and he mought ob knowed fore he trade tor it, dat twant fit to eat, but only to make soup out'n. Finally, in conclusion, my bruddern, bewar ob men dat comes to you in sheep's clothin, but within dey is ravenin as wolves.

A MOTHER and daughter being together in this county, gave birth on the same day, each to a son. In the bustle of the moment both babes were placed in the same cradle, and to the confusion of the mothers, when the youngsters were taken from the cradle, the nurses were unable to tell which was the mother's and which was the daughter's son—a matter which, of course must forever remain a mystery. —Kendall Mercury.

A REMARKABLE CRIMINAL.

The Cleveland Herald says: Charles Howard, alias James Baker, alias John Burns, (his true name), has been convicted in the United States District Court with having, with intent to pass, counterfeit money in his possession. He was born in Edwardsburg, C. W., of respectable parents, but very early in life gave evidence of a strong propensity to engage in a criminal career, by stealing chickens, harness, iron wedges, &c., from his neighbors. At the age of twenty or thereabouts, his depredations became so numerous and intolerable as to cause the people of Canada to drive him out of the neighborhood. Set adrift on the wide sea of life, without a true compass, it is natural to suppose he would eventually run aground on the eternal rocks of Justice. He married a woman in Canada, went to New York, opened a house of bad repute, and associated with the ton of the counterfeiting fraternity until his knowledge of the business excelled even that of his preceptors, which makes his loss to the profession a severe blow to day.

After indulging in a wild career of dissipation and counterfeiting for a number of years in New York, meanwhile making tours through the country for the purpose of "shoving the stuff," he returned to Upper Canida, settled near Brantford, and by good behavior won the affections of a widow lady worth about $15,000. His first wife must have been apprised of his intention to swindle this lady, as she arrived in the neighborhood soon after, and remained there, frequently visiting the house of wife No. 2, until all things were ready, when both fled under the elopement dodge, leaving the doubly bereaved widow to mourn the loss of all her money. During his residence there, so great was the confidence reposed in him by the people, he was appointed magistrate, and when the "elopement" occurred the affair was written up as the sensation of an hundred years in the province. No other man could have created a greater sensation by such conduct, and no other woman in the vicinity could have received more marked attention from numerous friends than he reaved wife No. 2. With the capital thus obtained, he was successful in eluding justice, until the money was all squandered, when he returned to counterfeiting for a living, and got "pulled" in the game.

As observed before, he is only convicted of having counterfeit money in his possession. The amount was about $1,700, when his arrest was announced through the press, telegrams were received from all quarters, by the Marshal, requesting that he be held until persons could arrive and take him in custody, in case of his release here. It appears his operations, so far as known, extended from New York to the Mississippi, along the northern boundary of the United States, as officers in Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Toronto, Oswego, Rome, Syracuse, Rochester and Albany have written invitations prepared tendering him the hospitalities of their respective cities, and would gladly have pressed those invitations had he been released here. Stephen Reed, Deputy United States Marshal from Oswego, has just returned home after a fruitless effort to get possession of the prisoner on a capias, issued by Judge Hall, of the Northern District of New York. This paper set forth that Howard made three attempts to pass a $100 counterfeit note in Oswego. For that offence he could have been sent up fifteen years, but as the bird is caged here, and sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary, it was deemed the safest and most proper course to allow this lease to expire before making arrangements for another.

AN amusing incident occurred in one of the churches of Philadelphia last Sunday evening. An old lady, whose failing eyesight demanded an unusually large prayer book, started for church a little early. Stopping on the way to call on a friend, she laid her prayer book on the centre table. When the bells began to chime she snatched what she supposed to be her prayer book and started for church. Her seat was in the chancel end of the gallery. The organ ceased playing. The minister read, "The Lord is in his holy Temple, let all the earth keep silence before him." In the effort to open her supposed prayer book she started the spring of the music box which she had taken instead. It began to play—in her consternation she put it on the floor. It would not stop—she put it on the seat, it sounded louder than ever. Finally she carried it out, while it played the "Washing Day," an Irish jig tune.

AN ESSAY.—The following is a school essay written by one of the "youngsters" of Cairo:

About Dogs.—Dogs is usefuller as cats. Mice is afeered of mad cats. They bite 'em. Dogs follers boys and catches a hold by the ear. Hogs rarely bite. People eats hogs and not the Jews as thay are all other animals that doessent chaw their cud isn't clean ones. Dogs sum times gits hit with bootjacks for barken of nights. Sleepy people get mad and throw 'em. Dogs is the best animal for man. They do more for man than grownd hogs, koons or even goats. Goats smells. The end.

THOSE who blow the coal of others strife may chance to have the sparks in their own faces.

CAMBRIA FREEMAN.

EBENSBURG, PA.,
THURSDAY, : : : Oct. 16, 1867.

APOLOGY.—The election has demanded so much of our time and energies that we have found it impossible to do full justice to the present issue of our paper. We feel, however, that the glad tidings which the Freeman conveys to its readers this week will make ample amends for all shortcomings in other respects.

UNPRECEDENTED VICTORY

PENNSYLVANIA REDEEMED!

GRAND POLITICAL SMASH-UP!

White Niggers and Black Buried in the Ruins.

WALLACE HAS BEEN HEARD FROM.

As we go to press the returns are meagre and unsatisfactory, but enough has been received to enable us to assure our readers, that we have achieved a glorious victory. Sharswood is triumphantly elected by a handsome majority, and doubtless a Democratic Legislature has been chosen.

Notwithstanding the falling off in the vote, the Democratic counties nobly sustained themselves, holding the vote of last year—Cambria, Clarion, Clearfield, Monroe, and several others, even increasing it. Many radical counties—Franklin, Washington, Jefferson, and others—have gone Democratic, while in the strong radical counties there has been an immense falling off.

We are not disposed in the hour of victory to triumph over a fallen foe, but we may and do congratulate our Democratic fellow-citizens on the auspicious result. It guarantees to our country a future existence worthy of the glories of her past history. Let Democrats, then, instead of vain boasting, return devout thanks to that good Being who holds the destiny of nations in the hollow of his hand, and through whose blessing and the intelligence of a conservative people, our glorious old Commonwealth has been "REDEEMED, REGENERATED and DISENTHRALLED."

The following telegraphic despatch was brought from Cresson by last night's train:

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9, 1867.

PHILIP COLLINS, ESQ.—The State gone certain for Sharswood. Democratic ticket elected in this city. Waterloo defeat.

W. A. WALLACE.

THE OHIO ELECTION.

There is scarcely a district thus far heard from in Ohio in which there is not more or less of a Democratic gain. Some changes of this kind are of the most remarkable character, and plainly indicate a general uprising of the people against the corruption and misrule of the party in power. It would, perhaps, be expecting too much to hope for the election of the Democratic candidates there, but certain it is that the proposed amendment to the State Constitution giving negroes the right to vote, has met with a most signal defeat, and we can only hope that the party base enough to propose it has gone down with its pet project, never again to be resurrected. God speed the good work.

—The negroes in Buffalo resolved on the opening of the fall term of the public schools, to abandon their own free schools and put their children in with the whites. The teachers told them they were not allowed to accept them, but it was no avail. The Superintendent did the same thing, but still they persisted in sending their children to the white schools. The Superintendent was finally compelled to eject the colored children from the schools. At this the parents and a number of seedy radicals became exceeding wroth, and they now threaten to prosecute that functionary under the Civil Rights law.

—It is stated that a new and fatal disease has recently appeared in different parts of Montgomery county, Alabama. Thus far it has baffled the utmost skill of the physicians. It begins with a fever, and soon bloody discharges from the bladder ensue, which continue until a fatal termination within forty-eight hours. After death the corpse becomes exceedingly yellow. All the cases thus far have resulted fatally. The disease, however, seems to be confined to the country and to the whites, as not a case has occurred within the city.

—A dispatch from Junction City states that thirty thousand head of cattle from Texas and New Mexico, bound for the Eastern markets, are now at Abelme, on the Union Pacific Railway, eastern division, one hundred and sixty-five miles from the State line. Buyers are reported scarce. This trade in Mexican cattle towards the United States is a new thing on this railroad, and the suddenness with which it has sprung up into such magnitude is remarkable.

—The Nashville Times hears it reported that a company of Pennsylvania capitalists have bought about forty thousand acres of valuable iron lands in Hickman and adjoining counties, and are making preparations to manufacture railroad iron, spikes, chains and articles of hollow ware. They have a charter to construct a railroad to Clarksville and Corinth.

—Of all the coal produced in the United States, Pennsylvania furnishes seventy-three and three-quarters per cent. Her mines are exhaustless and their product is annually increasing.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

—McClellan has engaged his passage to America for the first week in November.

—The "silver nuisance" of Canada can hardly be appreciated by the more fortunate dealers in greenbacks under Uncle Sam's rule. Silver is refused for any amounts over legal tender.

—A legless imposter was soliciting alms on St. Louis streets recently. His poverty was investigated, and he turns out to be owner of property in New York city to the amount of sixty-five thousand dollars.

—It is said the Mexican usurper Juarez has ordered Generals Corona and Marquez to colonize Mexicans upon the waste lands west of the Rio Colorado, in order to forestall settlement by United States citizens.

—General Scott's will, just probated, bequeaths all his property to his daughter, the wife of Colonel Scott; his Pulaski sword to the West Point Academy, and his sword worn in Mexico to his grandson, Winfield Scott Hoyt.

—B. W. Green, who murdered his wife in Hartford several years ago, and was acquitted on the grounds of insanity, died at the private hospital of Dr. Buell, in Litchfield, Conn., on Friday. He was about sixty-four years of age and leaves an estate of nearly $200,000.

—A shrewd villain in Nashua, N. H., on Thursday, walked deliberately up to a store window and broke in a pane of French glass, and when asked to pay for it as deliberately drew out a $100 bill, which the storekeeper took, giving him $70 in change. The bill proved to be counterfeit.

—A serious accident occurred on the Pennsylvania Northern Central railroad, at Millersburg, on Friday morning. The up and down express trains collided, injuring the locomotives and scattering the baggage in every direction. A colored boy from Harrisburg was killed. A few passengers received slight contusions.

—Nicholas Hyman, of Buffalo, the natural guardian of Anna Hyfann, a little girl of twelve years, sues Ellen Burk, wife of Wm. Burk, for wilfully cutting off two large black curls from the said Anna's head and converting the same to her own use. The suit is in the Supreme Court, and the damages are held at $2,000.

—Mr. Martin Gates, of Duncansville, Blair county, Pa., was severely wounded in the chest during the late war. He came home and got well. The other day, he extracted a large brass button from the wound. The button, which was flattened, had been driven into his body by the bullet, and had remained there fully three years.

—A man, supposed to be a returned Californian, committed suicide on the 22d by hanging himself to a tree a few miles below Detroit. He was an entire stranger in the neighborhood, but letters found upon him indicated his name to be Clarence Brewster. He also had $2,200 in his pockets and in a belt, nearly all in gold.

—A gentleman left New Orleans and came North until the fever abated, and while in New York he purchased a ticket in the Georgia State Lottery for the benefit of the Masonic Orphans' Home, and drew the capital prize of thirty thousand dollars, on the 24th of September, ultimo. Lucky to avoid the fever and get thirty thousand dollars by his visit.

—A year ago, Dr. Youmans was called to attend a man in Pontiac, Ill. The man died, and the doctor ran off with his widow. There being suspicions afloat, the body was taken up, and it was ascertained that the man had been poisoned by arsenic. Ever since officers have been in pursuit of the doctor, and he has been arrested at Kewaunee, Wis.

—Near Rock Island, Illinois, recently, Mrs. Campbell Barthell was bitten by a rattlesnake in a field of watermelons. The whisky cure was immediately tried, quantities of the article being administered; but this remedy, as well as the skill of physicians subsequently called, failed to counteract the poison, and Mrs. Barthell died six days after being bitten.

—Fires, floods, railroad accidents, crimes of every grade, and suicides, have periodical turns in which they rage, one or another taking precedence. Just now, suicides are prevailing all over the country. The papers come from all parts laden with shocking details of self-murder, sometimes accompanied by the murder of others, and sometimes without such horrid accompaniments.

—A severe storm passed over Danville, Pennsylvania, on last Wednesday afternoon. Several houses were unroofed, and a number of trees blown down. About seventy feet of the steeple of the Mahoning Presbyterian Church was broken off by the wind, the point passing through the roof into the audience room. The bridge across the Susquehanna river was damaged.

—At the trial of one McGarrety, for an outrage upon the wife of a canal boat captain, in the Patterson, New Jersey, courts, a singular scene occurred. The accused brought forward three friends to establish his innocence, when each was successively recognized by the woman as his companion in guilt, there being four implicated in the crime, and only McGarrety having been previously identified and arrested.

—An Atlanta newspaper brags lustily that a large body of troops is to be permanently quartered in that city, and says "it points to Atlanta as the great interior city of the South." This reminds the Macon Telegraph of the contest between two children as to the possession of their respective parents, when one was completely silenced by the other, who triumphantly exclaimed: "Aha! my pa has got a mortgage on his house, yours hasn't!"

—Omaha dispatches state that a party of railroad thieves, whose operations have extended over the Pacific Railroad for the past six months, have been broken up, and most if not all of them arrested. A large amount of property was found secreted in Omaha. It is also ascertained that a large quantity of goods has been shipped to points in the East during the summer. All the parties implicated have been connected with the road.

Mrs. Lincoln's Wardrobe.--Further Revelations.

[From the N. Y. World of Saturday.]

The exclusive publication in Saturday's World of Mrs. Lincoln's correspondence with her agent in this city in regard to the sale of her wardrobe, has created a great flutter in circles fashionable as well as political. Yesterday the rooms of Mr. Brady, 609 Broadway, were filled nearly all day by ladies and gentlemen, who came to look at goods displayed for sale under such unfortunate circumstances. The people could hardly reconcile the unimpeachable accuracy of the World with such a state of facts, and hundreds came on simple missions of inquiry to go away satisfied that there was more truth than poetry in the statement. During the day three United States Senators, whose names by request we withold, called to see Mr. Brady, and on just such a mission. A large number of letters from all parts of the country have also been received by Mr. Brady, asking to know the truth, and making indignant protests against permitting a forced consummation of Mrs. Lincoln's plans.

The sales yesterday did not exceed $150, notwithstanding the large number of ladies that called. Many no doubt were prompted by curiosity, and after examining the goods to their satisfaction, retired without purchasing. Among those who called were the wives and daughters of several prominent merchants.

As previously announced, if the greater part of the inventory is not disposed of within a few days they will be put up at auction, and sold for what they will bring.

WHAT THURLOW WEED HAS TO SAY—FURTHER REVELATIONS.

[From the Commercial Advertiser, Oct. 4.]

We have never approached a question with half the sorrow that this one awakens. To vindicate, shield, and protect "Heaven's best gift to man" is a grateful duty, while to even reprove, and much more to assail a woman, is painful and if without a perfect justification, unmanly.

If the American Congress or the American people have failed to meet the pecuniary expectations of Mr. Lincoln's widow, it is because that personage failed, during his life and since his death, to inspire either with respect or confidence. They should not, therefore be subjected to the reproach, or rest under the imputation, of ingratitude. Had Mrs. Lincoln, while in power, borne herself becomingly, the suggestion of a Lincoln Fund, by voluntary contributions, would have been promptly responded to. The national heart was warm. It gushed out in liberal endowments for Grant and Farragut. It would as cheerfully have met the appeal in favor of Mrs. Lincoln if it had not intuitively closed and chilled.

In her conversation Mrs. Lincoln is represented as bitterly denouncing Secretary Seward, for which, of course, there is no warrant or excuse, for he wrongs no man, and much less is he capable of injustice, wrong, or even unkindness to woman.

But we happen to know—the late Caleb B. Smith, then Secretary of the Interior, being our informant—a fact which incensed Mrs. Lincoln against Mr. Seward. The President gave the Prince Napoleon a dinner, for which Mrs. Lincoln sent to the Secretary of the Interior for payment of a bill of some $900. This demand, though wholly illegal, coming from the President's wife, embarrassed the Secretary, who called upon the Secretary of State for advice, where he learned that Mr. Seward had also dined the Prince, having the same number of guests, and giving them a duplicate of the dinner at the White House. In fact, Mr. Seward ordered both dinners from the same restaurant, and by his own bill knew the cost of each. For what Mr. Seward paid $300, Mrs. Lincoln demanded $900. But whether three or nine hundred, the claim was alike illegal, and could not be paid. For this, however, Mrs. Lincoln quarrelled with Secretaries Smith and Seward. This amount, however, was subsequently covered up in a gardener's account, but occasioned scandal; which respect for Mr. Lincoln measureably suppressed.

Though Mr. Lincoln left an estate which enabled his family to live quite as comfortably as they had ever lived, Congress and the people would have promptly and cheerfully provided munificently for them if Mrs. Lincoln herself, with every advantage that high position gave her, had made friends or inspired respect. And this last exhibition proves how instinctively right the popular estimate of her character was.

The fact for which Mrs. Lincoln seeks large publicity, namely, that she received presents valued at $24,000, is a pregnant and suggestive one—suggestive, at least, of offices and contracts, unless the more charitable construction is reached through the assumption that they were expressions of regard and frendship. But it is not known that the wife of any President, however estimable, was so loaded with shawls, laces, furs, diamonds, rings, &c.

Mrs. Lincoln's propensity to sell things was manifested early, and before any necessity was foreseen. If our information is reliable, eleven of Mr. Lincoln's new linen shirts were sold almost before the remains, which were shrouded in the twelfth, had started for that "bourne from whence no traveller returns."

Individually, we are obliged to Mrs. Lincoln for an expression of her ill-will. It is pleasant to remember that we were always out of favor in that quarter, And it is equally pleasant to remember that we possessed the friendship and confidence of Mr. Lincoln to the last hour of his life, without paying court, as others did, to Mrs. Lincoln, and in spite of her constant efforts to disturb our relations.

This mortifying revelation will go abroad, and as is natural, the press of Europe will make the most of it, in deprecating the ingratitude of our government and the want of liberality in the American people. This consideration alone constrains us to discharge the unpleasant duty of showing that neither the government nor the people are justly obnoxious to these accusations.

THE LATEST.

Mrs. Lincoln, it is said, authorized the publication of her letters to her broker for the purpose of stimulating the sale of her property. In New York she registered herself as Mrs. Clarke and also as Mrs. Morris. She is accompanied by her son and servant. Appeals have been made in her behalf to several Republican officeholders who are partly indebted to her for their position, but without success, and she has been obliged to borrow money of her broker. The following letter is of interest:

CHICAGO, Sept. 14, '67.

W. H. BRADY, ESQ:

My Dear Sir—Please call and see Hon. Abram Wakeman. He was largely indebted to me for obtaining the lucrative office which he has held for several years, and from which he has amassed a very large fortune. He will assist me in my painful and humiliating situation, scarcely removed from want. He would scarcely hesitate to return in a small manner the many favors my husband and myself always showered upon him. Mr. Wakeman many times excited my sympathies in his urgent appeals for office, as well for himself as others. Therefore he will only be too happy to relieve me by purchasing one or more of the articles you will please place before him. Very truly,

MRS. A. LINCOLN.

Mr. Wakeman, it is said, has not yet been heard from.

HORRIBLE.—A Young Lady Abducted and her Ravisher Skinned Alive.—Three or four days have elapsed since the dark and horrible transaction narrated below transpired, at or near Flewelling's X Roads, Mississippi. A young lady of the highest respectability and most amiable character was proceeding to a neighbor's house, where a party, to which she had been invited, was given, when she was overtaken by a negro man and forcibly drawn from the high road into the woods, her cries stifled by a cloth of some sort pressed over her mouth. Taken to a secluded and desolate spot, she was tied by the negro, and there detained for a week, while the black scoundrel effected his vile purpose, without the miserable victim being able to offer the slightest resistance.

Two men, who were out hunting, unexpectedly came upon her, still tightly bound and alone. Her captor had left her at the moment either to procure food or pursue some other purpose. Learning from the wretched girl the circumstance of the atrocity practiced upon her, they concealed themselves until he should return. Nor had they long to wait—and, upon his coming they at once seized and secured him. Believing that the victim should pronounce sentence upon him, they awaited her decree. It was to flay him alive. They at once proceeded with their hunting knives to relieve him of his epidermis. The forest resounded with his cries and imprecations as they stripped the skin from the soles of his feet to his body. By the time they had progressed to his waist, he could stand no more, but completely exhausted, yielded up the ghost—the monster dying a horrible death. The girl was conveyed to her home, where everything was done to relieve her suffering, but she died the next day in great anguish.—Memphis (Tenn.) Avalanche.

—The colored radicals in Louisiana, it seems, in many cases, decline to go to the polls and vote, because they were not to get pay. They understood when registering their names, that they were to have land or something else given them, but on ascertaining that such was not the fact, they treated the election with the utmost indifference. They thought that which the "elective franchise" promised them, was something to eat, and many took baskets with them to get it in when they had voted, and many refused to vote until they had it in their basket safe and shure. These are the radical sovereigns!

THE RICHEST MAN IN THE WORLD.—Extract of a Letter from Baron Solomon Rothschild.—PARIS, 8th April, 1864
Rue Fauby, St. Honore.—Will you be kind enough to have forwarded to me here 200 bottles of your Indian Liniment; if you will send at the same time the account, I will forward you the amount through Messrs. Belmont & Co., New York.

Baron Solomon Rothschild having recommended to many of his friends Major LANE'S LINIMENT, and they being desirous to procure it, he should advise him to establish a depot in Paris.

THE INDIAN LINIMENT,

As a relief, ever ready; as a killer of pain, taken inwardly, or outwardly applied, has no equal. For the relief and cure of Rheumatic and Neuralgic Affections, Sprains, Bruises, &c., it is unequalled. It is also most efficacious, taken inwardly, in the cure of Cholera, Cramps and Pains in the Stomach, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c., and is without exception the most wonderful Panacea the world affords. No FAMILY should be without it. Every TRAVELER by land or sea should have a bottle. MINERS and FARMERS residing at a distance from physicians should keep it constantly on hand. In case of Accidents and sudden attacks of Stomach Complaints, its value cannot be estimated. Inquire for Major LANE'S INDIAN LINIMENT, and take no other. PRICE 50 Cts. per bottle. For sale at wholesale and retail by Demas Barnes & Co., 21 Park Row, N. Y.; Gale & Robinson, 180 Greenwich-st., N. Y.; F. C. Wells & Co., 192 Fulton-st., N. Y.; Chas. N. Crittenden, 38 6th Ave., N. Y., and by respectable Druggists throughout the world. None genuine unless signed by JOHN THOS. LANE, and countersigned by J. T. LANE & CO., Proprietors, 168 Broadway, N. Y. ☞Send for circular.

THE RESULT IN CAMBRIA.—The result of the election in this county has exceeded the most sanguine expectations. Cambria, ever true to the great Democratic cause, has more than vindicated her proud name, and every Democratic heart within her limits will be filled with patriotic joy when they learn the gratifying record our county made for itself on Tuesday last. The majority on the State ticket will probably reach 1,100, while several of the candidates on the county ticket will doubtless exceed those figures one hundred or more. We give such of the returns on the principal officers voted for as have reached us up to Wednesday afternoon, in a tabular statement of which we are indebted to Geo. W. Oatman, Esq.:

LOST IN THE WOODS.—An old man named John Buzzard, about eighty years of age, who has been an inmate of the County Poor House for some time past, left the home of a niece, whom he was visiting, at Barker's Mill, near Plottville, Susquehanna township, on Thursday evening last, and up to latest accounts no trace of his whereabouts had been discovered, although parties scoured the woods on Friday and Saturday in search of him. On Sunday the entire male portion of the inhabitants thereabouts were to go in quest of him, but we have not thus far learned the result. The old man was somewhat demented in mind, and it is feared that he has gone estray and perished in the woods.

CONCERT TO-NIGHT.—Our young friends of the Beethoven troupe, an amateur band of vocalists, who regaled our citizens on Saturday evening last, intend giving another entertainment in the Court House this evening. This troupe sings well in chorus, and present a choice selection of exquisite songs, and promise considerable change in programme this evening. They "done" Carrolltown, St. Augustine and Loretto this week, and were very successful. Let them meet with like encouragement here.

ARTICLES useful as well as ornamental are comprised in the fine stock of clocks, watches, jewelry, notions, etc., now to be found in greater profusion than ever at the cheap emporium of C. T. Roberts, on Main street. That is the place to buy the right goods at the right prices.

TOBACCO AND SEGARS.—If you "chews" to smoke, kind reader, you cannot find a better assortment of segars and tobacco anywhere than at J. M. Thompson's, on High street. Jim keeps everything worth keeping, but his stock of the weed is particularly choice and varied.

GRAND JUBILEE!—Old Portage Rail Road Reunion!!—Tuesday, the first of October, instant, was a gala day at Summitville. It had been announced that a social meeting of the former officers and employees on the Old Portage Road would be held at Riffel's Mansion House, and preparations had been made to accommodate a large number of guests. But the assemblage, in point of numbers, exceeded the most sanguine expectations. From every point of the compass the participants flowed in, and Summitville, before the dinner hour, was alive with the assembled multitude.

The happiest feeling pervaded the assemblage. The old and the young—the brave and the fair—all mingled congratulations, and renewed long severed friendships. Many who had been co-laborers on the road, but who had not met for many years, had the pleasure of a hearty shake of the hand, while they mutually recounted old incidents of the road.

When the dinner hour arrived, the guests sat down to a table, furnished in Mr. Riffel's best style, groaning with all the delicacies of the season—the ladies, of whom there were a large number present, the wives and daughters of the employees, occupying the first table.

Dinner over, the younger portion of the party repaired to the ball room and continued to trip it on the "light fantastic toe," while the more aged and sedate amused themselves in friendly discourse and recounting anecdotes of the early history of the road—some few, indeed, renewing their old acquaintanship over a convivial glass, until night closed in.

But darkness had no terrors for the lively congregation assembled at the "Mansion House." The music continued, there was no flagging in the "mazy dance," no lull in the enjoyment of the occasion.

About ten o'clock matters took a more formal shape, when R. L. Johnston was called upon for a speech. Before commencing his remarks Mr. J. read the following letter from Gov. Geary:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, PA., Sept 30, 1867.

W. K. PIPER, JAMES SMITH, A. M'COY, and others, Committee, Summit, Cambria Co.
—Gentlemen: It would afford me great pleasure to be with you to-morrow evening, to take by the hand so many of the old employees on the Portage Railroad, but the recent death of a near relative demands that I should decline.

Please express to your companions at the re-union, my appreciation of their kindness, in extending the invitation, and say to them that although unable to be with them in person I shall be in spirit. Wishing you, one and all, all the enjoyment that you could desire upon such an occasion, I am

Respectfully yours, JNO. W. GEARY.

Be next, at the request of the Committee, read the following poem prepared for the occasion:

SKETCHES OF THE PORTAGE RAILROAD.

Long time ago, when we were young,
We think in twenty-nine,
Or maybe thirty was the year,
Our project was designed.

To build a railroad across the hills
As a connecting link,
And join canals, both East and West,
Was the design, we think.

The largest wisdom of the State
Was all collected hither,
To give their views and throw their weight
All in the scale together,

And start the work as best they could,
To push with might and main,
And build a road of forty miles,
Including inclined planes.

Canal Commissioners, we think,
Same time had been appointed:
James Clark, of Indiana town,
Was President annointed.

Sylvester Welsh, a man of worth,
Possessed of education,
Was deputised to run the line
And find the best location.

He organized a noble band
Of able engineers,
And sent them out to run the line
Along with overseers.

Commencing down at Conemaugh,
They climbed the highest hills,
Then down the gap to Gaysport,
Below M'Cahan's Mills.

Commencing work in early Spring,
As some do well remember,
They pushed it through with all their might,
And finished in November.

Then soon the work was parceled out,
As some considered fair,
While half the nations on the globe
Were represented there. [At the Letting.]

The work went on with lightning speed
For years two, three or more,
When finally it was opened wide
In the Spring of thirty-four.

As transportation spread itself
And moved along the planes,
Some towns and villages sprang up
Whose traces still remain.

The Summit, one among the rest,
Had flourished in its day:
A place of pleasure and resort,
Where strangers loved to stay.

Designing men and demagognes,
Whose hearts were set on plunder,
Concocted plans to tear it up
And rend it all asunder.

It was a very pleasant place,
Where strangers loved to roam,
And where many an honest workingman
Had bought himself a home.

But now, alas, there's little left
Of former greatness there;
It has passed away, and may be classed
Among the things that were.

The road has also had its day
And served its generation,
And nothing now but lightning speed
Will suit this Yankee nation.

Whatever may have been its faults,
And some we know there were,
It educated many men
For usefulness elsewhere.

A change of base was soon proposed
By those who held the reins—
To build a road around the hills,
Avoiding inclined planes.

Contractors all, both great and small,
From snowy white to sooty,
Assembled here to get the spoils
And pocket all the booty.

Then a corporation stout and strong
Came at us in the rear,
It gobbled up our property
And left us nothing here.

One thing we had almost forgot
While speaking of location,
It is of a hunter cute and sharp,
His name was Adams-ation.

He settled here in early life,
Midst young creation's bloom;
He shared his cot with honor bright,
And still had lots of room.

One day as he was in a glee,
While in the woods a straying,
He blundered on the engineers
As they were out surveying.

"Ah hooh! by dam," he says to Welsh,
"Here comes Nease Adams ation;
I want you to bring your railroad here,
Close to my coal-bank-ation.

"And if you do you'll save yourself
Some crooked litigation;
But if you don't, just take it straight
To h—l or through damnation."

["Ah hooh!"]

But enough of this, we'll drop the theme,
As we have too long tarried;
We'll write no more in verse or prose
Till some of you get married.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 27, 1867. J. R. B.

Mr. Johnston then proceeded to make a few remarks commemorative of the "good old times," and closed by complimenting the female portion of the audience, and this part of the ceremonies concluded with three rousing cheers for the occasion and a unanimous resolution to "do it again" next year.

The dancing was resumed and continued for some time, when it was ascertained that A. Kopelin, Esq., had arrived, when he was called upon and responded with his usual force and eloquence. Meantime supper was waiting, and all partook of a sumptuous feast. After supper dancing was resumed, and the party did not fully break up until the small hours of morning.

Mr. David Humphrey, Mr. James Smith, and others, who had principal charge of the arrangements, exerted themselves during the whole day and evening to secure the comfort of every guest, and they succeeded admirably.

Upon the whole, during many years, we have not, at any public entertainment, experienced the same enjoyment, and when another anniversary brings around a like reunion, "may we be there to see."

EDITORIALITIES, LOCAL AND GENERAL.—Mr. Andrew Decker, of Oneida township, Huntingdon county, raised a stalk of buckwheat this season which yielded the enormous number of 3,081 perfect grains.

John Brown, the negro who attempted to outrage Miss Nora Filler, of Bedford, was arrested in Snake Spring township, that county, on Tuesday night of last week.

An examination of teachers for the public schools of this borough took place on yesterday afternoon. We did not learn the names of the teachers selected. Schools will open on Monday next.

A young man named Cain, a citizen of Huntingdon county, was killed on the Sandy Ridge siding of the Tyrone & Clearfield Railroad, on Monday, the 23d ult., by being run over by a freight train.

A few days ago, C. A. Johnson, of Williamsburg, Blair county, while standing in Woodberry township, shot an eagle off a tree in Catharine township. The bird measured six feet and one inch from tip to tip of wings.

Nicholas Vandevinder was tried in the Indiana County Court, week before last, for the murder of his son-in-law, and acquitted on the ground of insanity. The jury was out twenty-six hours before it decided on its verdict.

On Friday week, William McHenry was killed in the coal bank of J. Nuttal, near Osceola, Clearfield county, by a slip in the coal. He lived about thirty minutes after the accident. He leaves a widow and five children.

A match game of base ball between the Elm Club of Loretto and the Pastime Club of Summitville, was played on the grounds of the former, on Saturday week. The Elm boys came out victorious, the result being: Elm 77; Pastime 50. We have found it inconvenient to publish the score in full.

A woman named Maria Berryman, about 40 or 45 years of age, who died recently in the Mifflin county poor house, is said to have confessed, on her dying bed, the murder by poison of her illegitimate offspring—a little girl three years old. She promised other revelations, but died before she made them.

No less than four citizens of Centre county have died very suddenly within the last two or three weeks. Two of them fell dead, one while at work and the other while walking along the road, and the other two only lived a short time—one indeed only a few minutes—after reaching their beds. Verily, in the midst of life we are in death.

Dr. S. S. Christy had the misfortune to fall from the high steps leading to the porch of the Mansion House, Summit, on Tuesday of last week, and sustained contusions of such a character as to render him unconscious for a day or two after the accident—during which time his life was despaired of. He is now, however, slowly recovering, and will soon be himself again.

An insane Frenchman, whose name was ascertained to have been Fournier, jumped through the window of a passenger car on the Pennsylvania railroad, while the train was in rapid motion, on Saturday week, and received internal injuries of such a nature that it was not expected he could recover. He was left in charge of the railroad agent at Mifflin, being at the time in an unconscious condition.

The new Catholic Academy building in Hollidaysburg has almost reached completion, and it is announced as the intention of the young ladies of the congregation to hold a grand festival in it at an early day, the proceeds to be devoted to the payment of the debt which has accrued from its erection. The edifice is an imposing and handsome structure, and the festival is in the proper hands to make it enjoyable and successful.

The last Huntingdon Journal, in appealing to its Radical friends to vote the whole ticket, asked whether the rebels should be permitted to come back and rule the North with an iron rod, as it did before the war. We judge from the inklings that have already reached us as to the result on Tuesday last, that the people prefer a rod of iron to a rod of steal—we might say whole acres of steal—under which they have labored and groaned for the last seven years. We doubt not the rod of iron has entered the soul of the Journal man since the election, and that there is a terrible Nash-ing of teeth in that locality, about this time.

WINTER is coming on apace, and everybody should be properly clothed to resist its chilling influence. Ladies and gentlemen will find just what they need for this purpose at V. S. Barker's store on Main street, as cheap and good as is offered by any dealer in this section.

THE ELECTION is over—the men with the most votes have won the day—and the best thing for us all to do is to settle down to the routine affairs of life, and buy all we need in the dry goods and grocery line at the cheap cash store of Mills & Davis, on Main street.

PAY UP.—Mr. Hugh A. M'Coy desires us to say to all persons indebted to him for harness, saddles, or work of any kind, that he is much in need of money at the present time, and hopes that they will call and settle their accounts without delay.

THE air is full of rumors, election news is rife; but despite the great commotion, (on this you bet your life,) still will come the tidings—tidings true, as 'twill be found—at Shoemaker's great emporium are the cheapest goods in town.

From the Scholastic Year.

Death of a Graduate of Notre Dame.

All the many friends of AUGUSTINE E. TAMMANY, and especially his old college friends, were profoundly grieved to hear that he had met with a premature death. He was a young man of robust constitution, and of more than ordinary grade of talent. His genial manners, his usually strict observance of college regulations, and his high order of intellect, endeared him to the Students, Officers and Professors of the Institution.

The following extract from a letter received by one of the students, was the first announcement we had of his death; since then we learn that his death was caused by an accident on the Northern Central Railroad:

EBENSBURG, PA., Sept. 18th.

"Mrs. F. Shoemaker received a dispatch last night, bringing the sad news of the death of her brother, Aug. Tammany. He died very suddenly, in Elmira, N. Y. He went there on a visit. I suppose the news will surprise you, for it is too true to be doubted. I have not heard the particulars yet. Mrs. Shoemaker left for Elmira this morning. It is supposed that he died of cholera, as it is raging in that place."

On Tuesday, the 24th inst., the Philodemic Society, of which Mr. Tammany was an efficient member, passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Philodemic Society, unanimously express our regret for Mr. A. E. Tammany, formerly a member of our Society, who was killed recently near Elmira, New York, on the Northern Central Railroad. We heartily sympathize with the members of his family in their bereavement. Still we hope that they, with ourselves, will be to some degree consoled by the belief that he is now enjoying in Heaven the reward of a well spent life. Yet we cannot but ask all who may read this, to join us in solemn prayer for the soul of the departed one. May he rest in peace.

Papers please copy.

REV. A. LEMONNIER, Prest.
M. J. HORGAN, Cor. Sec'y.

On Wednesday, the 25th inst., the holy sacrifice of the Mass was offered by Rev. Father Granger, Prefect of Religion, for the repose of his soul. All the students of the college were present. Rev. Father Hallinan addressed the students. He alluded to the unprecedented popularity of Mr. Tammany with the students of the past year, his genial qualities of heart and mind, and the gloom and bereavement his death must cause into the home of his loving sisters. He also alluded to the brilliant career that seemed naturally open to the young gentleman's talents, his determination to succeed in the legal profession, and how his many friends looked anxiously to his future success; and yet how prematurely all these bright hopes were blighted.

After these remarks he reminded the students of the salutary lesson Mr. Tammany's death teaches all—that death comes like a thief in the night, when we least expect it, and not unfrequently when we are least prepared!

On the same day a meeting of the students of 1866-7 was held in one of the college halls, Rev. Father Hallinan presiding. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, By a sad and fatal accident, our late friend and dearly beloved fellow-student, A. E. Tammany, of Lock Haven, Pennsylvania, has been stricken down by the fell destroyer—death;

Resolved, We can kindly find words to express our deep sorrow and regret at this mournful event, which has deprived us of so valued a friend.

Resolved, We extend our heartfelt sympathy and condolence to the afflicted and bereaved friends of the deceased, knowing that their loss is irreparable, but hoping they may be comforted by the fond assurance that he has departed this life for a far better and happier one.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of the deceased, and that they be published in the following journals, viz: Chicago Times, The Scholastic Year, Notre Dame, Indiana, Ebensburg Democrat, Ebensburg, Pennsylvania, ——, Lock Haven, Pennsylvania.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

JOHNSTOWN, Oct. 7, 1867.

Dear Freeman—The melancholy days, the saddest of the year," are with us, and decaying nature is observable wherever we turn our eyes. The leaves have turned to russet brown, and the sighing winds seem to be playing them a sad requiem as they noiselessly drop to the ground. The husbandman, after all his toil and anxiety, watch and care, now reaps the fruits of his industry, and only God's poor dread the coming of the cold, biting blasts of which the keen, bracing breezes of Autumn give us a foretaste. Typical of the instability of life is the ruin and decay around us, and all inanimate nature seems whispering "passing away, passing away." Will for us who take to heart the lesson thus brought so forcibly to our minds, meditating upon the change which has occurred within the past few weeks. What were erstwhile green trees will, ere many days, be leafless spectres, and beautiful flowers, like pleasant memories of the past, will have faded into indistinct recollections. So mote it be.

A Temperance meeting was held on the Public Square, in this place, last week, and was largely attended by a quantity of ladies and a number of gentlemen. As the ladies are strongly appealed to in gatherings of this kind, they of course turn out lively, and the appeals made to them to save fathers, big brothers and "lovyers," is heartrending in the extreme, and great inducement for them to lend their reliable assistance in punching the eyes out of the "destroying element."

"Maidens, like moths, are ever caught by glare,
And Mammon wins his way where seraphs might despair," and as it is epidemical just now the girls have a perfect right to be on it as long as the excitement lasts. Rev. Lemon, of Armstrong county, was the speaker on this occasion, and interspersed his numerous anecdotes with some very sensible remarks.

The examination for the public schools here was held last week, and the school term commences to-day. S. B. M'Cormick, Esq., conducted the examination, having been appointed temporarily to the position of County Superintendent.

A man named John Hitchings, had one of his legs broken and was otherwise badly crushed in one of the Company's mines, today, in consequence of a portion of the roof caving in upon him.

Mr. T. J. Chapman received his commission on Saturday, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Condon as County Superintendent.

During the night the sea roughened soon a violent storm having arisen vessel was in peril. O'Gunnel has on deck and watched the sailors low the mainsail, when the lightning fl vividly and he saw among them O'I himself, who flung a letter sealed black at his feet, and was instantly sh ed in darkness. It is impossible t scribe the anguish which the unl man experienced at this sight. H that it was all over with him. Henc not a hope remained; his heart with grief and despair. When he re the residence of his relative, so was he changed they could hardly nize him. A livid palor overspread countenance, a burning fever cons him. Instead of the gay companio joyous guest whom they once knew, found a man prematurely old, sad, rose; seldom speaking, and never sm His relative, pained as much as ished at this transformation, only tioned O'Gunnel; but he always ev a reply, and many weeks passed befo had made the slightest disclosure.

At length one day, while promena together along the canal which trav the Heeren-Gratt, one of the prin streets in Amsterdam, the merchant u him more earnestly than usual to re the cause of his condition. O'Gu

VALUABLE RECIPES.

Beefsteak Pie.—Cover the bottom of a deep plate with paste. Cut the beef into pieces convenient for the mouth; spread them evenly over the paste; then add butter, flour, pepper, salt, and water; cover with paste, press the edges firmly, and cut a gash in the centre of the pie. It is good cold or hot. If to be used cold make a gravy by boiling a bit of the bone, seasoning it the same as the pie; heat the gravy and serve it with the pie. Potatoes are all the vegetables needed—they should be mashed. These pies can be made from cold beefsteak left the day before, but are not quite as good. It is an important fact that, if meat-pie is made without a hole in the crust, to let out certain emanations from the meat, colic, vomiting, and other symptoms of slight poisoning, will occur.

To Keep Cider Sweet.—The Utica Herald states that A. G. Williams, of Hampton, Oneida county, has a method of keeping cider worthy of being generally known: Allow the cider to work until it has reached the state most desirable to the taste, then add grated horse-radish in the proportion of a tumbler and a half to the barrel of cider, and shake up well. This arrests further fermentation, and, after remaining a few weeks, may be racked off in clean casks, and the air excluded by closing the bung. Cider preserved in this way has a pleasant, agreeable flavor.

Superior Corn Bread or Cakes—Made without eggs or milk. Take three cups of corn meal, one and a half cup wheat flour, three-fourths cup lard, three-fourths cup brown sugar, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt and water enough to mix a batter that will pour. Bake with a quick fire in a pound cake dish, three-fourths of an hour, or in a bread pan one or two inches deep, or as griddle cakes. It makes a good pudding with dip. Try it.

To Beautify the Teeth.—Dissolve two ounces of borax in three pounds of boiling water, and before it is cold add one teaspoonful of spirits of camphor, and bottle for use. A teaspoonful of this mixture, mixed with an equal quantity of tepid water, and applied daily with a soft brush, preserves and beautifies the teeth, extirpates all tartarous adhesion, arrests decay, induces a healthy action of the gums, and makes the teeth pearly white.

Cure for Burns.—It is said that it a piece of charcoal is laid upon a burn the pain subsides immediately. By leaving the charcoal on one hour, the burn is healed, as has been demonstrated on several occasions. This remedy is cheap and simple, and certainly deserves a trial.

No Dyer.—The Niles (Mich.) Sentinel-on-the-Border relates the following good one:

"Beneath, around, before and behind our office—all about in the neighborhood—there are, or have been, a variety of independent institutions, one of which was a dye shop, and while we have no earthly connection with, or knowledge of, any such business, we are nevertheless expected, if not absolutely to manage it for the proprietor, at least, to answer all important questions of his customers. A day or two since, while engaged dashing down a string of alliteral adjectives qualifying a bad case of Black Republicanism, a lady walked in, and, leaning her elbow on the counter, beckoned to us, and whispered cautiously in our astonished and disgusted ear, the following blood-harrowing inquiry: 'Sir, can you dye a white skirt red?' Great heavens! thought we, what a blessing to our chocked feelings that the widow we board with and support did not hear it! The idea of the sober Border Ruffian leaning over a dye tub, or in any other manner, coloring a shirt, or any other garment, red, or any other color! Whew; 'No, madam! no!' we snappishly retorted, 'we are no dyist! This is a newspaper and job printing office! Don't you see the sign?' 'Well,' she thoughtfully drawled out, 'one of them reads Sentimental-on-the-Border, and I thought if you could make it sentimental on the Border, you could make it red all over!' Great God, from such an incorrigible old Mother Goose we could do no less for liberty than rush off and leave her in full possession of the 'Sentimental' office."

A Shabby Lover.—It used to be the fashion for all the folks in the neighborhood of new London, Conn., to go to town and see the annual examination of the schools. One fellow brought his girl along with him in a wagon; but when time for dinner came, instead of going with her to the hotel, as the others did, he went to a shed where his horse was hitched, and took out a pumpkin pie. "Come here, Cecilia," says he to his girl, "let's have dinner. Fact is, they do charge so monstrous high to the hotel, that I don't feel like submittin' to their extortion. I guess we kin make as good a meal as we want to out here." Cecilia, having no other resource, assisted her beau in his practical protest against hotel extortions, and swallowed her share of his frugal lunch with the best grace she could command. After the examination was over, they drove home. There was a toll-gate on the way, and, as they came near it, her prudent lover turned to her and said: "Now, Cecilia, you know we mayn't be married arter all, and as I paid the toll one way, I don't consider it no more than fair that you should pay it the other!" The poor girl paid the toll, but she never allowed him to pay his addresses to her again.

The base ball fever is widely spread. A little six-year-old was sitting in repose upon the parlor steps, with a base ball in his hand, gazing intently at the moon. "Pa," he suddenly spoke, "is there only one man in the moon?" "That's the tradition, my son; the man in the moon was the only inhabitant of that bright world we have ever heard of." After a moment's pause he remarked, with a sigh—"He must be lonesome, pa, and no one to play base ball with!"

Lincoln's Wardrobe.--Further Revelations.

[From the N. Y. World of Saturday.]

The exclusive publication in Saturday's World of Mrs. Lincoln's correspondence with her agent in this city in regard to the sale of her wardrobe, has created a great flutter in circles fashionable as well as political. Yesterday the rooms of Mr. Keteltas, 609 Breadway, were filled nearly all day by ladies and gentlemen, who came to look at goods displayed for sale under such unfortunate circumstances. Few people could hardly reconcile the unquestionable accuracy of the World with the actual state of facts, and hundreds came on simple missions of inquiry to go away satisfied that there was more truth than poetry in the statement. During the day several United States Senators, whose names by request we withold, called to see Mr. Brady, and on just such a mission. A large number of letters from ladies of the country have also been received by Mr. Brady, asking to know the facts, and making indignant protests against permitting a forced consummation of Mrs. Lincoln's plans.

The sales yesterday did not exceed $2,000, notwithstanding the large number of ladies that called. Many no doubt were prompted by curiosity, and after examining the goods to their satisfaction, left without purchasing. Among those who called were the wives and daughters of several prominent merchants.

As previously announced, if the greater portion of the inventory is not disposed of in a few days they will be put up at auction, and sold for what they will bring.

WHAT THURLOW WEED HAS TO SAY—FURTHER REVELATIONS.

From the Commercial Advertiser, Oct. 4.]

We have never approached a question with half the sorrow that this one awakens.

To vindicate, shield, and protect "woman's best gift to man" is a grateful task; while to even reprove, and much more to assail a woman, is painful and if not without a perfect justification, unmanly.

WHOLESALE MERCHANTS' LISTS
now ready, and will be sent on application by mail or in person.

Hoping to see all my old customers and many new ones this Spring, I return my most sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage I have already received, and will endeavor to please all who may call, whether they buy or not.

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

$100 REWARD!
For a medicine that will cure
COUGHS,
INFLUENZA,
TICKLING IN THROAT,
WHOOPING COUGH
or relieve CONSUMPTIVE COUGHS,
AS QUICK AS
COE'S COUGH BALSAM
OVER ONE MILLION BOTTLES
have been sold, and not a single instance of its failure is known. We have in our possession any quantity of Certificates, some of them from EMINENT PHYSICIANS who have used it in their practice, and give the pre-eminence over all other compounds.
IT DOES NOT DRY UP A COUGH
BUT LOOSENS IT,
so as to enable the patient to expectorate freely. Two or three doses will invariably cure Tickling in the Throat. A half bottle has often completely cured the most Stubborn Cough, and yet, though it is as sure and speedy in its operation, it is perfectly harmless, being purely vegetable. It is very agreeable to the taste, and may be administered to children of any age.
In cases of Croup we will guarantee a cure if taken in season.
No Family should be without it.
It is within the reach of all, it being the cheapest and best medicine extant.
O. G. CLARK & CO., Prop'rs,
mar.28.eow1y. New Haven, Conn.

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE!
This great remedy for all DISEASES of THE STOMACH is the discovery of the inventor of Coe's valuable Cough Balsam, while experimenting for his own health. It cured Cramp in the Stomach for him which had before yielded to nothing but chloroform.
The almost daily testimony from various parts of the country encourage us to believe there is no disease caused by a disordered stomach it will not speedily cure. Physicians endorse and use it. Ministers give testimony of its efficacy; and from all directions we receive tidings of cures performed.
Dyspepsia it is sure to cure. Headache one dose will cure. Sick Headache it has cured in hundreds of cases. Headache or Dizziness it stops in thirty minutes. Acidity of the Stomach it corrects at once. Bad taste of the Food it stops immediately. Distress after Eating one dose will remove. Chills and Morbus rapidly yields to a few doses. Bad Breath will be changed with each dose.
IT IS PERFECTLY HARMLESS!
Its unprecedented success is owing to the fact that it cures by assisting Nature to assert her sway in the system.
Nearly every dealer in the United States sells it at ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.
C. G. CLARK & CO., Proprietors,

Dr. Brickland's
BONZO
Will be relied upon
as a Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia,
Debility and Nervous Diseases.
It creates a good appetite, restores the digestive organs, gives tone to the Stomach, and strengthens the nervous system. Thousands of letters testify to the truth of these statements.
